

Autism Society
of North Carolina

John and Claudia Roman Direct Service Award

The John and Claudia Roman Direct Service Award honors an Autism Society of North Carolina (ASNC) direct service employee who has demonstrated outstanding dedication to individuals with autism and their families. The recipient of this award should display an ongoing willingness to go “above and beyond” in providing support and promoting opportunities for people with autism. The extra efforts of this employee have had a significant positive impact on the individual, family, and community. The winner will be recognized at the ASNC annual conference as well as receive a monetary award and other recognition. The deadline is August 30, 2024.

Submit nomination forms by email to egrove@autismsociety-nc.org or by mail to the address at the bottom of the page.

Nominee: _____

Number of years nominee has worked with your child: _____

Your name: _____

Your address: _____

Your telephone number: _____

Your email address: _____

Explain why your Autism Society of North Carolina Direct Support Professional deserves the award - Please use additional sheets if necessary.

Special thanks to Lori and Gregg Ireland for their generous donation to establish this award to honor Christine Roman, the direct service professional who worked with their son. It was named for her parents, John and Claudia Roman.

Mail completed forms to:

ASNC, Attn: Liz Grove, 5121 Kingdom Way, Suite 100, Raleigh, NC 27607.

For additional information or assistance with the nomination process call 919-743-0204.